SEXUAL & REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH & RIGHTS

This program gives an extensive insight into current contended topics such as family planning, gender, abortion, LGBTQ, human rights, sexual violence and health inequ(al)ities.

It targets students who study health sciences, humanities, medical and social sciences, and who want to learn about the reciprocal concepts of Sexual & Reproductive Health & Rights in an international context.

The courses encourage intercultural discussion and an exchange of information with respect to others beliefs, and promotes a highly relevant subject within our society. It further emphasizes the UN Sustainable Development Goals, particularly SDG 3 "Good Health and Well-Being".

HEALTH & GLOBALIZATION

This program explores a wide range of important and contemporary topics such as human rights, health inequ(al)ities, migration, the spread of infectious diseases, NGOs and more.

The goal is to introduce students in the field of health sciences, humanities, medical and social sciences to the complementary concepts of Health & Globalization in an international context.

The program intends to attract a diversity of students from different backgrounds and nationalities. It thus aims to stimulate a culturally diverse, interesting debate and broaden the view on the different subjects.
