FOUNDER AND LEAD TRAINER OF MORUI ITHUTE

A MENTORING PROJECT THAT BUILDS CONFIDENCE AMONG WOMEN TO VENTURE INTO FARMING AND SHIFT THE STIGMA AROUND FARMING

ABOUT MORUI ITHUTE

Morui Ithute (Farmer Learn in Setswana) is a farmer skills capacitation group focusing on mentoring young farmers especially working women.

The goal is to shift away from the idea that farming is for the uneducated and poor community.

The mentoring project serves to offer technical support to farmers and aspiring farmers to farm with a sustainable mindset.

They host practical farm trainings, conferences, and mentorship groups that provide women with networking opportunities to further develop their farming skills.

VOICES OF WOMEN IN AGRICULTURE

Fish Palai is an integrated farmer based in the village of Mochudi in Botswana. An engineer by profession, she noted the importance of Morui Ithute in correctly farming with a clear direction and understanding. Now, she is a confident commercial farmer.
