FRESH PRODUCE EXPORT COMPANY THAT EMPOWERS WOMEN FARMERS THROUGH A TRAINING OF TRAINERS ON GOOD AGRICULTURAL PRACTICES

ABOUT AFRI FOODS TRAINING OF TRAINERS

Afri Foods is a fresh produce export company that follows sustainable farming practices, pays real living wages, and aims to empower women farmers in Rwanda.

Afri Foods works with more than 375 individual farmers and five cooperatives across Rwanda to source fresh produce by buying directly from small-scale and commercial farmers.

Through a women's training of trainers (ToT) on good agricultural practices and techniques Afri Foods creates jobs and boosts incomes of women farmers.

The ToT consists of training, coaching and mentoring and is essential in increasing the capacity and competence of 15 women whom in the end will train other 15 women.

VOICES OF WOMEN IN AGRICULTURE

After taking part in a Afri Foods' training, Uwitonze Clementine from Karengé District started leading a group of women who have put their efforts together to learn and practice farming as a profession. She is a role model to other women farmers and a true leader.
